Test 2

1. Mental interpretation of physical sensations produced by the stimuli from the external world is called
   a) Understanding
   b) Perception
   c) Interpretation

2. Mental grasp or comprehension of the source language sign is called
   a) Understanding
   b) Translation
   c) Remembering

3. Interpreting undergoes __________ three stages before the transferred message is actually pronounced by the interpreter
   a) Two
   b) Three
   c) Four

4. The meaning selected from a range of meanings of a sign with reference to the subject field of interpreting is called the
   a) Plot
   b) Understanding
   c) Sense

5. The intermediary language between the SL message and rendering of it into the TL is called
   a) Inner speech
   b) Target language
   c) Source language